Shook Construction is currently interviewing students for the Spring 2018 term, and we have some very exciting construction related co-op positions available in the Columbus area. While the majority of our co-op positions are typically in Dayton and Cleveland, we currently have over $40 million dollars’ worth of water resources construction work between the Columbus Southerly Waste Water Treatment Plant in Lockbourne, OH and the Licking County Water Treatment Plant in Pataskala, OH. We are looking for a co-op or intern to assist with project engineering work on each jobsite.

We are looking for students with a passion for learning about the construction industry from the ground up. Each semester, we hire a select group of students for paid co-op positions such as these. We provide real-world experience, which in turn provides an advantage above other candidates when pursuing full-time employment upon graduation.
